English Suburban Theatres Coming Into Prominence.

A "Disconnected American Variety" Play Finding Favor.

Champion Corbett's Success-Attractions at the May Fair.

(Copyright, 1894, by Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 5.-The growth of Lon don is bringing the suburban theatres into prominence. The Grand Theatre, Islington, for instance, was lately visited by royalty, while Henry Irving yesterday laid the foundation stone of a handsome new theatre at Brixton, another suburh of London. In addition, Mr. Irving promised to perform there. When he had flaished the speech in which he made this announcement, the great English actor was applauded by the leaders of his profession, who were present in strong force, among them being Messrs. Edward Terry, Lionel Brough and Horace Leonard.

During his address, Mr. Irving dilated upon the increasing need of places of recreation for the massee, his remarks upon this subject being vigorously applauded.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught were present at a performance of the "Masqueraders," at the St. James's Theatre, yesterday.

Cigar Firms Charged with Bringing in Contract Laborers.

Contract laborers are being daily admitted to this country, notwithstand. ing the efforts of the Ellis Island authorties to keep them out.

The courts of New Jersey and New York are full of such cases, but it has been difficult to secure a conviction. Assistant Immigration Commissione a case which will come up in the United States Circuit Court on Monday next, would cast two cigar manufacturers of this city $1,000 each. They are Selgas. Nestal & Co., 146 Reade street, and F. Garcia & Bros., 80 Warren street.

In December last, the Ward line line steamer Yucatan brought two Cuban eigar-makers from Havana. They were Valentine Alvares, thirty-three years old, and Victor O. Amado, twenty-eight years old. They were detained at Ellis siland as contract laborers and taken before the Board of Special Inquiry. In sworn affidavits they acknowledged that they came to New York under contract for the two firms mentioned.

Commissioner McSweeney thought the better way to secure a conviction of the firms who were violating the Contract Labor inw was to allow the men to land and then arrest them while at work.

Commissioner McSweeney thought the better way to secure a conviction of the firms who were violating the Contract Labor law was to allow the men to land and then arrest them while at work, Accordingly they were permitted to come

The Commissioner then wrote a letter to Secretary Carlisle, setting forth the facts and requesting an order of arrest. This the Secretary promptly forwarded, and on Saturday last the men were placed under arrest. They are now confined at Ellis Island, detained as witnesses to appear at the trial against their employers. The authorities are confident of a conviction.

The Fitzgerald contingent of Coxey's army started from this city for Newark at 10 o'clook this morning.

At the last moment Supt. Byrnes granted the "army" a permit to march. When Fitzgerald announced to the assembled crowd at the Labor Lyceum, 64 East Fourth street, that they would be allowed to parade, with colors flying, the men received it with a shout of joy. "Three cheers and a tiger for Capt. Byrnes!" sang out "Old Sport" Adams, the iron-moulder.

The permit called for only sixty men and limited the route from 64 East Fourth street to Second avenue, to Twenty-second street, thence to the North River and the ferry in Twentythird street.

There were only fifty-one men in line. There were only fifty-one men in line. Morrison I. Swift, Fitzgerald's lieutenant, was not among them. He always travels by rail. When he rejoins the army in Newark, it is stated on good authority, he will deliver a speech which he has prepared, which will begin with the words;

"We are travel-stained and weary toilera."

The other missing men were said to be laid up for repairs, having collided with too many schooners. It is believed, while cruising along the Bowery last night.

"The army never drinks," said "Old Sport," apologetically, "but we are allowed to take snifter individually.

By way of proof, he forthwith raised a collection among the newspaper men present, and gave a practical illustration of the difference between the army not drinking collectively and yet drinking individually.

Before meeting at the Labor Lyceum, in East Fourth street, the "army" gathered in front of a piatform at the People's party headquarters, 50 East Tenth street, where they slept last night and took their breakfast of beef stew, coffee and bread and butter this morning.

There were only two amusing inci-dents along the way. One was when the "Black Maria" drove up abreast with the head of the army. The driver kept up a running fire of comments on the Coxeyites, who retorted by telling him: "Get inside, where you belong." The other incident was when a hearse drove past the head of the line and somebody invited "Old Sport" to step in.

MANY LIVES IN PERIL.

Greenwich Street Tenement-House Likely to Collapse.

Front Wall Bulges Out and Shakes When "L" Trains Pass.

Though Alive to the Danger, Tenants Are Loath to Leave.

Six families, comprising about thirty people, have for some days been living virtually in the shadow of death in the condemned four-story tenement-house at 106 Greenwich street. Strange to say, although they fully realized their danger, they have continued to live in a death-trap and even now, when a tardy warning has been given them by the Department of Building Inspection, they are grumbling at the prospect of having to leave the tottering pile.

The building is owned by the estate of Oda Duffy, who for years kept a little clothing store on the ground floor. It is fully eighty years old, and fifteen years ago began to show signs of weak-tered by the tenants in the neighborhood, and several half-hearted attempts have been made to prop up the ramphackle affair. The building is what is known as a "faise-front," that is the front wall is of brick, while the sties and rear are of wood.

To-day the north half of the front wall buildes outward fully ten inches at the top, and every train that passes on the Ninth Avenue Elevated road sends a tremos through the shaky pile and threatens to send the whole mass of brick and mortar pitching forward of the form the heads of passers-by and the Elevated training forward on the heads of passers-by and the Elevated structure.

Inside the building the state of affairs is still more alarming. Owing to the building of the front wall the ends of the floor beans on the upper floors have been pulled partly out of their resting places, and the warped walls and crooked ceilings show how the building has been racked by the settling of the foundations and swaying of the walls.

This state of affairs might have continued nidefinitely if Shoemaker Henry Merten, who has a shop in the basement, had not been served with a dispossess warrant yesterday.

Merten's ire was aroused and he sent word to the inspector came around late yesterday afternoon, it took but a glance to tell him that many lives were in danger.
